Sympathetic approach to the cases involving Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.

OFFICIAL MEMORANDUM

No. GAD 11 SBC 74 BANGALORE, DATED THE 11TH JULY 1974.

The Commissioner for Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes in his Twentieth Report has suggested, among other things, that the authorities who hold in their hands the future of the candidates belonging to the weaker sections of the society should have an abiding sense of commitment to the cause of the downtrodden sections of the society and adopt a sympathetic and constructive approach to their problems. He has also suggested that these authorities should decide the cases involving Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes with this sense of commitment and dedication and not merely through a strict application of rules and regulations.

2. Government while agreeing with the above recommendation are pleased to direct that where the interests of the Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes are adversely affected by the operation of any rule or standing order, the cases may be referred to Government in the administrative department for a decision in consultation with the General Administration Department. This will however not apply to cases where an authority is statutorily required to take any decision under any rule or law.
